Turbo Aftermarket Hosts Its First-Ever Global Conference

Last week, the Turbo aftermarket business hosted its first-ever Global Aftermarket Conference. The two-day conference was held in Lausanne, Switzerland, with the theme of "Sharing our Vision - The Roadmap to Global Aftermarket Success." The conference, which gathered close to 100 representatives from Honeywell's worldwide distributor network, offered a unique opportunity for participants to better understand the new global vision and organization of Honeywell Turbo's Aftermarket business.

Specially prepared presentations by Honeywell executives from both the OE and Aftermarket businesses offered in-depth knowledge about the latest aftermarket trends and Honeywell's superior product offerings and technical support. This conference also served as an ideal platform for networking and learning among fellow participants. Participants had the opportunity to experience firsthand the Garrett® turbo advantage through physical product displays. A special turbo demonstration focused on a comparison between genuine and remanufactured products.

The event concluded with a Recognition event in Montreux hosted by Tony Schultz, Vice President of Americas, Turbo Technologies, and Ed Goodwin, Director of Global Aftermarket, Turbo Technologies. Three awards were presented at the recognition event including "Distributor of the Year" for 2008 and 2009. This award recognizes the distributors with the greatest overall contribution to Honeywell's turbo aftermarket business in terms of growth, cash, productivity, people and the enablers.
